

Forest Challenge

This is an active and highly competitive team building event involving teamwork, leadership, problemsolving and decision-making skills.

The event takes place in an area of forest and at a number of different sites throughout Spain, and UK so there should be a site convenient for you.

All teams attend an initial briefing at which equipment is allocated, training is given and route maps prepared. Teams need to navigate their way to a number of problem solving challenge sites, to arrive by a specified time. Bonuses can be collected on the way...however teams need to focus on priorities.

At each challenge site, teams undertake a different team challenge. Problem Solving Challenges vary in nature, being designed to draw out different qualities and skills from within the team. In each case, teams must ensure that they have read, understood and adhered to all the conditions specified in the Challenge Briefing Sheet.

Event staff, based at challenge sites, take note of how each team performs. This information (in the form of bonus and penalty points) is not revealed at this stage but is held back to an award ceremony at the end of the event. Teams are encouraged to review how they are operating as they move from challenge to challenge.

Although an active event, this is not an event that requires a level of fitness beyond that of a reasonably active person. Participants should be capable of a brisk walking pace...running is not required! The emphasis is very much upon working as a team and competing against other teams from a similar background.

At the end of the event, participants receive a certificate acknowledging their achievement in completing the Forest Challenge. And of course, the winning team is awarded the trophy! Teams receive a breakdown of their performance so they can see where points were picked up (and dropped!).

If required, we can arrange for each team to receive feedback and a debrief with our Event Coordinator.
